Peso recovers despite cut in RP credit rating

By Cesar A. Lim

For most people, a downgrade of the Philippines' credit rating is a bad thing. But for the Philippine peso, it's a good thing. The peso has recovered from a low of 50.50 pesos per US dollar to 48.50 pesos per US dollar, a 4% recovery, since the rating was cut by Standard & Poor's on Jan. 13.

Standard & Poor's cut the Philippines' credit rating from 'BBB-' to 'BBB-'. The agency said the cut was due to the Philippines' high level of foreign debt and its slow economic growth. But the peso's recovery shows that investors are still confident in the Philippines' economic future.

The peso's recovery is also due to the fact that the Philippines' economy is still growing. The Philippines' GDP grew by 4.5% in 2001, and it is expected to grow by 5% in 2002. This shows that the Philippines' economy is still strong and that investors are still confident in the Philippines' economic future.

The peso's recovery is also due to the fact that the Philippines' government is still committed to its economic reforms. The Philippines' government has implemented a number of reforms, including privatization and deregulation, which have helped to improve the Philippines' economic environment.

With a growing emphasis on the importance of the environment, the industry is looking for ways to reduce its carbon footprint. This is where the concept of "green" comes in. Green refers to products and processes that are environmentally friendly. In the context of the construction industry, green buildings are designed and constructed to be energy-efficient, reduce waste, and use sustainable materials. The industry is also looking for ways to reduce its carbon footprint by using renewable energy sources and reducing its reliance on fossil fuels. This is where the concept of "green" comes in. Bird flu ...

Bird flu is a highly contagious viral infection that affects birds and can sometimes spread to humans. The virus is found in the droppings, saliva, and tears of infected birds. How an exchange student program gave a novel business, time, friendships and lots of cherished memories

By Gwynn

I still remember the first time I stepped onto the streets of Budapest, Hungary. The city was a mix of old and new, with its historic architecture and modern buildings. The people were friendly and welcoming, and the food was delicious. I was in Hungary for a year, and it was a great experience. I learned a lot about the culture and the people. I also made some great friends. I will never forget the time I spent in Hungary.

Massage Garbaging with Massage Therapy is the new thing for the men who want to stay young and sexy

My first massage was a long time ago, and it was a good one. I was in a room with a massage table, and I was lying on my back. The massage therapist was a woman, and she was very nice. She was very professional, and she was very good at what she did.
